DAILY PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

MONDAY AFTERNOON, NOVEMBER 25, 1833.

☞We are compelled to omit, this day, the proceedings of a meeting of the Pittsburgh Bar—the attack of the Globe on Mr. Duane, and that gentleman's Card—all of which shall appear to morrow.—We are also compelled to curtail the interesting communication, in relation to the Portage Rail Road, we trust our correspondent will excuse this liberty.

The Report of the Committee, appointed at the Warren Convention to examine the various proposed routs of connection between the Pennsylvania and Ohio Canals, will be found in our paper to day. It was the intention of that Committee to have forwarded this report to General Lacock, the President of the Convention, before publication; but, as he will be about to commence his journey to Harrisburgh, they were apprehensive that the Report might not reach its destination before he left home, and that great delay might, in consequence, ensue. They have, therefore, concluded that the more satisfactory course will be, to give the Report immediate publication.

We have no wish to offer any comments upon this Report—it speaks for itself—but we would remark that the very low price of the stock of the Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road affords strong evidence of the correctness of the decision of the Committee against the Rail Road.

MECHANICS' MAGAZINE AND NEW YORK AMERICAN INSTITUTE.—We have received the fourth number of the second volume of this very able publication, and from an examination of its contents, are fully satisfied that the work loses none of its interest or value as it advances in age.—Sound judgment is displayed in the selection of articles for this journal; the present number, however, possesses a special interest, in the account of the Sixth Annual Fair of the American Institute, at New York, on the 16th of October last.—Upon that occasion, there was a grand display of the rich creations of American genius, American skill, and American ingenuity—there was exhibited every variety of the productions of mechanical and scientific skill, whether intended for use or ornament—whether designed to contribute to the comfortable enjoyment of life, or to the gratification of the most fastidious taste or extravagant fancy.

There were exhibited fine specimens of landscape painting; rich engravings; splendid porcelain vases, and other articles, painted, enamelled, and gilt; and, hard by, a patent door valve; a mangling machine, and a machine for softening hides.—In one place might be seen a rose wood portable writing desk, an exquisite center table, in imitation of various kinds of marble—splendid piano fortes, and in their immediate vicinity, cedar pails, bed quilts, and jack screws. In one place you might have seen Bruce's biscuit baking machine, and perhaps, at the same time, Feuchtwanger's large bottle of the most virulent of poisons, Prussic acid—here you might see Miller's patent steam Bed Bug Exterminator; and just over it, a jar of Cozzen's city bred leeches. Perhaps, on the same shelf, you might behold Dr. Latterman's newly invented compound turnkey for extracting teeth, and Kent's substitute for an amputated knee. In one place was exhibited Hunt's splendid collection of curls and wigs, to ornament the head; and in an other place, Murphy's shining blacking to beautify the feet.—But it is in vain to attempt to mention every thing that was exhibited there. There were malleable cast iron, and ornamental confectionary; improved sad irons, and an ornamental cake, weighing forty pounds, which, no doubt, was greatly approved.

There you might see Clarke & Co's beautiful wooden ware, and Benedict's diamond neck laces; here the best German flutes, and there, first rate American pitch forks. In one corner stood Chanbert's terrible twenty four pounder; in another, Mrs. Willington's more insidious, but equally destructive, ladies' corsets.

But these substantial objects for the gratification of the eye and the palate, numerous as they were, were not all that contributed to the delight of the visiters. An intellectual treat, a feast of reason, was also served up. Mr. Kennedy, from Baltimore, an accomplished scholar, and a polished gentleman, was selected to deliver an address upon the occasion. Standing, as he did, among the splendid and varied productions of American skill and industry, fostered by the American System, it was but natural that his discourse should be a defense and justification of that policy, which in a few short years had created so many evidences of its utility and wisdom. This task is performed with skill and ability, and with all that polished eloquence which characterizes the author of "Swallow Barn." The delusive fallacies of the Free Trade System, that system which very liberally proposes to reduce our yeomanry to the condition of paupers, to benefit the paupers of foreign countries, is fully and ably exposed. We would gladly give numerous extracts from this address, but the interesting report of the delegations from Allegheny and Philadelphia to the Warren Convention, circumscribes the bounds at our disposal. The following glowing contrast of the condition of our country during the last ten years, with that of the preceding ten years will, no doubt, be read with satisfaction, and must suffice for the present.

"It is now about ten years since the legislature of the Union gave its first indication of a settled purpose to incorporate into the public policy that system of measures regarding the expansion and support of domestic industry, which has since been the cause of so much excitement throughout this country. The thoughts of the people of the United States had, for some years previous, been tending to this point; and some laws referring to it,—which were rather the forecast shadows of the system than the adoption of the system itself,—had, it is true, been passed by Congress; but, until the period to which I have referred, it could scarcely be said that this code for the maintenance of domestic labor was resolved upon as a permanent measure of legislation. Accordingly, in the year 1824, a decisive tariff law, constructed with a view to the encouragement and protection of home manufactures against foreign competition, after full and free discussion, was enrolled in the statute book.

It is well to pause at intervals and look back upon our career, that we may compare fact with philosophy,—performance with promise. He who does so upon the last ten years, will find much to occupy his thoughts and instruct his mind. I will not pretend to draw even an outline of this survey as it strikes my view: time would not serve me to array the vicissitudes of opinion and the developments of history that belong to such a labor; but I will ask you to note the most prominent feature in the whole picture, and almost the only one which, throughout that period, has been without variation,—I mean the steady, onward march of the nation from one stage of good fortune to another; its career upon a plane of continued elevation. I would ask you to mark, too, the enchanting prospect from its present height. You will look over a landscape gilded with the purest sunshine, in an atmosphere redolent with fragrance: you will see how content has shed its balm upon the people; and how healthfully labor has walked to its toil. You will hear the frequent stroke of the woodman's axe, sending its dull echo through the frontier forest; and perceive the rich uncovered earth turned up to the sun, over many a former waste and distant wild. You will find huts grown into comfortable houses, hamlets into villages, villages into cities, and cities into great and gorgeous marts. Canals and roads may be seen stretching forth their serpent lines into the bosom of the remote vallies: fossils more rich than gold, will be found to have been dug up in abundance from the dark chambers of a thousand mines: the smoke of unnumbered furnaces will be discerned rising above the screen of the great wilderness; flocks infinite will be seen whitening the summits of the interior hills; and, on the Atlantic, commerce redoubling her busy fleets. The sound of the hammer, the din of the shuttle, and the clamor of the mill, have made the universal air vocal; and every where the incessant murmur and gush of business tells of a generation intent upon aggrandizing a vast and scattered empire, which now, like a strong man, "walks on its way rejoicing."

This is the picture afforded by the retrospect of ten years, and its hues are the more brilliant because they are warmed (to use the painter's phrase,) by their contrast with the scene presented in the previous interval of the same duration. Of that interval, embracing the space from the conclusion of the war until the era of the tariff, but a melancholy account can be rendered. Its unhappy prominent points may be shortly enumerated in a concise story of disappointed hopes and fruitless endeavors. It begun with a hollow and unreal show of vigor in trade; an unnatural animation pervaded the departments of enterprize, more like the quickly exhausting fire of a fever, than the wholesome glow of health;—and the end was marked by deep disaster and pervading bankruptcy. Between these extremes we successively saw the evils of a depreciated currency, a sated commerce, and an overthrown industry. Our sturdiest population mourned their fate in sackcloth and ashes, and our best and most active citizens were whelmed in all the horrors of poverty.

A philosophical statesman would dwell with intense interest upon these pictures, and he would ask what wrought that marvellous change which made the first so beautiful? The reply would be,—that necessity is the parent of wisdom, and national instinct is not less strong than individual: want and privation are not the categories in which man is likely to repose; the restless desire to attain to good will make him astute in his perception, active and incessant in his toil; and the pressure of difficulty, better than all other masters, will teach him the true philosophy. These were the influences which produced the change, and the infallibility of their action was signally manifested in the sagacity with which the American people betook themselves to the most certain, and perhaps the only cure for the evils that encompassed them,—the adoption, namely, of the AMERICAN SYSTEM."

PORTAGE RAIL ROAD.

By a letter, recently received from the Superintendent, we are gratified to learn that the road is so far completed that, on to morrow, it will certainly be in readiness for the passage of cars, throughout its whole length. We are also informed that a rail road car, made after the most approved models, and the designs of the chief engineer, has been constructed in this city; and that it was forwarded, on Saturday evening, by the canal line, to Johnstown, where it will arrive this evening.

It is supposed that this is the first complete rail road car ever constructed west of the Allegheny mountain; and it will, probably, be the first to pass that great barrier, in one uninterrupted course, from the basin, at Johnstown, to that at Hollidaysburgh, surmounting, in its passage, an elevation of fourteen hundred feet.

Several of the Philadelphia delegates, to the Warren Convention, took passage in the canal boat, on Saturday evening, with the intention of passing along the whole line of canal and rail road, from this city to Harrisburgh. And they will, probably, enjoy the satisfaction of being the first to pass from the Ohio to the Susquehanna, in a continuous and unbroken passage, by canal and rail road.

UNION CANAL.—By the Annual Report of the Company, it appears that—

"The tolls received from the 1st of November, 1832, to the 1st of November, 1833, amount to $103,462 45, showing an increase over last year's receipts of 75 per cent., the tolls of that year amounting to $59,061 06—thus establishing the fact that the anticipations of the Company have not been based upon idle or illusory speculations, but founded upon sound and correct calculation."

The following is the official statement of the whole amount of tonnage which passed the Union Canal from the 1st of November, 1832, to the 1st of November, 1833, amounting to 85,876 tons, 2 cwt. 2 qrs.

REPORT.

The undersigned, to whom were referred the representations made to the Convention on behalf of the several projects for uniting the canals of Ohio and Pennsylvania, respectfully report—

That they could not fail to be deeply impressed with the responsibility of the task imposed upon them, as well as with a grateful sense of the confidence implied in their appointment. The first impulse was to decline, altogether, a trust by no means desired or anticipated on their part, and the discharge of which, might well be expected, in any event, to be viewed invidiously; but the frank and candid spirit which characterized the proceedings of the Convention, assured them that their labors, however imperfect, would be regarded with indulgence; and they did not feel at liberty, therefore, to interpose a sullen negative to the course which their associates regarded as tending to promote the great objects in view.

In the attempt to fulfil, conscientiously, a duty so delicate and important, it has been their anxious object not only to keep steadily in view the very able reports referred to them, but to seek, in every quarter, for such further facts and suggestions as might aid in reaching a just conclusion. Shortly after the adjournment of the Convention, they proceeded, by the line of the northern rout, to Akron, and thence descended the Ohio Canal to Massillon. From this point, some members of the Committee pursued the rout of the proposed rail road; whilst the others made their way to Waynesburgh, which was indicated as the most suitable point from which to commence the examination of Sandy Creek. At Waynesburgh, several very intelligent gentlemen were found in attendance, with the surveys of the Sandy and Little Beaver Canal rout, and accompanied the party up the valley of Sandy creek. The two divisions of the committee reunited at Hanover, and from this point enjoyed the advantage of the attendance of Mr. Joshua Malin, who had a large share in the labors exhibited in the report of Maj. Douglass. On reaching New Lisbon, the undersigned were gratified by the opportunity of a personal conference, on the subject of their inquiries, with many of the most respectable inhabitants. Here, also, two Addresses were read and submitted to them; one by E. Potter, Esq., supplemental to that presented to the Convention; the other by A. W. Loomis, Esq., exhibiting the facts and arguments in favor of a canal by the southern rout, and dwelling more particularly on the subject of the supply of water. There was also a statement communicated of the amount of merchandise sold in a single year within the county of Columbiana. These interesting papers, marked respectively, A, B, and C, are appended to the present report. From New Lisbon, the committee proceeded to the mouth of the Little Beaver, and thence along the margin of the Ohio river to Beaver, accompanied throughout by Mr. Malin. They have at length reached this place; and, under the pressure of engagements elsewhere, rendred exceedingly urgent by an absence of unexpected length, they hasten to state, as briefly as possible, the conclusions at which they have deliberately arrived.

The question as to a Rail Road, ought, perhaps, in order of time, to be first adverted to, as being one which, in the view taken of it by the committee, at an early period, involved no matter of detail or consideration connected with a personal examination. As such a work must depend, mainly, if not exclusively, upon private subscription, it became indispensable to inquire into the present state of feeling on this subject, in the quarters from which aid must necessarily be sought; and it was at once ascertained, beyond all doubt, that the prospect of obtaining subscriptions was utterly hopeless. When to the powerful arguments, drawn from experience, which were represented as dissuading from such a plan of improvement, in reference to transportation, was added the fact, that this work is not an independent one, but designed to connect two canals, and that its employment would involve a double transshipment, the committee felt, that to keep it longer in view, was to put in peril a really attainable object. It is a source of high gratification to add, that as the convictions of the committee necessarily unfolded themselves in frank conference with gentlemen most deeply interested in this project, they were met in a spirit of the utmost liberality and candor. No reason is seen to doubt that the most judicious location for the contemplated work was made by Lieut. Mitchell.

Putting then, a rail road out of view, there remain only the northern and southern routs for a connecting canal, and in coming to a decision between these, the undersigned are unanimous.

The great question in reference to a canal—and one compared with which all others are, in truth, insignificant—is, of course, as to the supply of water. If an anxious and distressing uncertainty on this point attach to the work, no safe calculation can be made on its value as a stock, or its usefulness as a medium of conveyance. Where the supply is inadequate or precarious, we cannot assume, in an estimate of revenue, the maximum of boats which might possibly, in a given season, if presented exactly at the desired period, be transported on the canal. The chances of disappointment will, in a great measure, suffice to dissuade from resort to a channel whose failure, at a critical moment, may involve irreparable mischief.—We must constantly bear in mind that ours will be only one of the modes of communication between the east and the west; and that its productiveness must depend on inspiring implicit confidence, not only in the cheapness and safety of this rout, but, in the certainty of its operations.

The committee are satisfied that a canal, by Sandy and Little Beaver creeks, will not be adequately supplied with water. The allowances in practice, found so indispensable, are, in the estimates for this rout, very low; strikingly so, when compared with those on the other rout by Colonel Kearney. The contemplated resort to steam engines is deemed wholly inadmissible.—Nor ought we to overlook the admitted tendency of the streams relied upon, to shrink up with the improvement of the country. The number of boats, also, likely to pass through this work, tho' advantageously compared, by the engineer, with the number on the New York Canal, at a particular period, falls far short of the subsequent expansion of business in that quarter. It would, indeed, be deeply mortifying if, instead of looking to the vast commerce that await this connection, and providing for, and urging its enlargement, we should have, hereafter, to look with alarm at the increasing demand for transportation as a satire on our own want of forecast. The undersigned will only add, that the apprehensions with which they approached this rout, founded on estimate and calculation, were more than realized by actual observation on the ground; and there was forced upon them a conviction stronger, perhaps, than can be conveyed by words.

After the foregoing remarks it is, perhaps, superfluous to say to the Convention, that the northern rout, by the Ravenna summit, is the one which the undersigned unanimously recommend. Of the abundant supply of water for that canal no doubt can be entertained; and it is ardently hoped that sectional feelings will be discarded, and the thoughts and exertions of all be steadily directed towards the accomplishment of an object of such vital importance to the whole of the two states.

It is proper to note distinctly that the canal thus recommended, is one which shall connect the two great thoroughfares of Ohio and Pennsylvania, by an unbroken chain of canal communication from Pittsburgh to Akron. A work, possessing this character, is called for, in express terms, by the Charter under which it is, at present, contemplated to act; and is, moreover, in the opinion of the undersigned, indispensable to enable us to compete successfully with the channels of conveyance already open. A break in this chain, by a railroad from Beaver to Pittsburgh, or by reliance on steam power to tow up Canal Boats, when the state of the river shall admit, would, in the opinion of the undersigned, render the work altogether incompetent to effect the great objects which are aimed at, and which it is so well calculated, under enlightened management, to achieve.

In concluding this Report, the undersigned cannot but feel that it is probably the last act of their connection with an assemblage which forcibly impressed every one of them with sentiments of respect and regard. The result of the Convention is, of course, like every thing human—a matter of uncertainty; but they must ever consider the period as well and happily spent, which brought them into intimate association with an estimable body of our fellow citizens, in a quarter of our common country, new to most of them; and they will delight to cherish the feeling of just national pride, with which they have traversed a great and flourishing state, whose prosperity may be distinctly traced to the indefatigable industry and sound morals of her intelligent and enterprizing people.

NEWS BY THIS MORNING'S MAIL!!

ONE DAY LATER FROM ENGLAND.

By the arrival at Boston of the ship Grafton, Captain Crowell, from Liverpool, advices have been received from London of the evening of the 8th of October, and Liverpool of the 9th, being one day later than previous advices.

There was a review of Don Pedro's troops at Lisbon on the 24th; they were 30,000 strong, and in fine order. It was expected that the next news from that quarter would be, that Don Miguel's army had been entirely broken up.

The King and Queen of the Belgians were expected in Paris on the 16th. They would remain a month in that capital.

The Dublin Corporation refused to move an address to the new Lord Lieutenant.

Don Carlos has left Portugal, and it was expected he would be proclaimed at Toledo.

The Parisian Journals, of the 6th and 7th, are occupied with the affairs of Spain, which appear to engross the public attention in the French capital almost exclusively.

A large portion of the English papers are devoted to the affairs of Spain. The speculations, growing out of the death of the King, are "plenty as blackberries."

The London Globe says, the combinations among the working men, in the manufacturing districts, are beginning to produce defensive associations of the master manufacturers.

The London papers of the 8th, and Paris papers of the 7th, are occupied with speculations on the affairs of Spain, but add nothing of importance to the information previously in our possession. The Marquis of Casa Yrujo had passed through Bordeaux on a special mission from the Queen to the French Court. It is stated, that Don Carlos had repaired to Toledo, where he was about to cause himself to be proclaimed King, under the title of Charles V. All Catalonia, and the clergy, generally, are said to be favorable to his cause. It is thought that France will take a decided part in favor of the Queen. Some of the French papers assert that M. Zea Bermudez is excluded from the council of regency; but a decree of the Queen, issued on the day of the King's death, confirms him in his post as Minister.

The German papers continue to declare that the Emperor of Austria is to assume the title of Emperor of Germany, and is to have an interview with the German Princes at Lintz or Vienna, and that a Congress of Ministers is to be held in the Austrian capital, as was stated in our former advices. A conflict, in which some blood was shed, took place between the military and the inhabitants of Durkheim, in Bavaria, on the 28th of September.

Figs in New England.—It would be rather singular if, at this late day, New England should become the home of this fine fruit. This may not seem altogether improbable when we consider that it flourishes not only in Spain, which lies in the same latitude with our Middle States, but in France which lies all North of the latitude of Boston. It is not native, we grant; but that is true also of many other valuable trees and plants which have become acclimated here and elsewhere. In England, scarce any thing is native but the oak. The vine itself was brought into France from the East by the Romans; and so was the cherry tree. The olive, which now flourishes so universally, came from the neighborhood of Mount Taurus; and the Chinese, for a long time, kept to themselves almost exclusively the orange, the lemon, and the white mulberry. The peach, which grows very well in Maine, is, we believe, of Persian origin. In a word, we cannot decide, without trying, whether New England, or any of the Middle States may not cultivate the Fig. We only know that cultivation will do a great deal which nature did not seem to intend accomplishing without human instrumentality; and these results are the premiums she pays to the ingenuity and the industry of man. —Bost. Jour.

Interesting Fact.—The Rev. Mr. Roberts, of Bristol, in his visits to prisons in England, from time to time, has fallen in with many convicts under sentence of death. In 167 instances he inquired of the malefactor whether he had ever witnessed an execution? It turned out that no fewer than 165 out of these 167 condemned offenders had been spectators in the crowd upon these melancholy occasions, which the legislature designed to operate as warnings to the profligate. So much for the "efficacy of sanguinary examples" in deterring from crime!—Poulson.

The Oyster War.—We learn from the Centreville Times, of the 16th instant, that the Sheriff of Queen Ann's county, acting on information given, took his posse of 57 men, and after getting possession of the steam boat Wolcott, proceeded down Chester River, on the 15th, in pursuit of the Philadelphia Oystermen, who were there dredging for oysters, contrary to an express law of the State of Maryland. About 11 o'clock, they came upon 6 sail of the line, and captured them, and brought the vessels and some 25 men to Centreville. All the vessels had unlawful implements on board, and among them 2 or 3 thousand bushels of fine oysters. After an examination before a magistrate the men were all committed to jail for a further hearing. The law directs that they shall be fined, and their vessels forfeited and sold, and a portion of the money goes to the captors.—Poulson.

The quantity of salt manufactured at the works in Barnstable, Mass. in the present year is estimated at 400,000 bushels. The average price at the salt works has not exceeded thirty five cents per bushel, making the gross amount received by the manufacturers $140,000

---

Congress.—The approaching session of Congress, which commences on the 2d of December, will be a long session, and may continue until the middle of Summer. The first session of the 22d Congress closed on the 14th July.

---

It is now the fashion, says a London paper, to have the paper of rooms varnished, which renders them both impervious to damp, and more lasting.

Indians.—Colonel Reynolds, together with a number of the chiefs of the Chickasaw nation, is now at this place. In a few days they intend crossing the river on their way to the West, in search of suitable homes for those Indians who wish to emigrate from their present country.

About one thousand Choctaws are now encamped in the vicinity of Memphis, under the superintendance of Major Armstrong. They will cross the river in the steamer Archimedes. These Indians have determined to abandon the home of their fathers, and to adopt the country which has been selected by their brethren, who emigrated to the west about eighteen months since.—Memphis Times.

All for Nothing.—A late London paper gives the following illustration of the abuses to which the facilities for obtaining public assistance are liable, taken from a production of a Clergyman.

He supposes a young weaver, of twenty two, marrying a servant girl of nineteen. Are they provided against the prospects of a family—do they economise—toil—trench? No, they live in Spitalfields, and rely upon the charitable institutions. The wife gets a ticket for the Royal Maternity Society; she is delivered for nothing—she wants baby linen—the Benevolent Society supplies her. The child must be vaccinated—he goes to the Hospital for Vaccination. He is eighteen months old, "he must be got out of the way;" he goes to the Infant School, from thence he proceeds, being "distressed," to the Educational Clothing Society and the Sunday Schools. He remains five years; he is apprenticed gratis to a weaver; he becomes a journeyman; the example of his parents is before his eyes; he marries a girl of his own age; his child passes the ancestral round of charities; his own work becomes precarious, but his father's family was for years in the same circumstances, and was always saved by charity; to charity, then, he has again recourse. Parish gifts of coal—parish gifts of bread—are at his disposal. Spitalfields Associations, Soup Societies, Benevolent Societies, Pension Societies—all fostering the comfortable luxury of living gratuitously; he comes, at length, to the more fixed income of parish relief—he begs an extract from the parish register, proves his settlement from the charity school indenture of apprenticeship, and quarters his family on the parish, with an allowance of 5s. a week. In this uniform alternation, of voluntary and compulsatory relief, he draws towards the close of his mendicant existence. Before leaving the world, he might, perhaps, return thanks. He was born for nothing—nursed for nothing—he has been clothed for nothing—he has been put out into the world for nothing—he has medicine and medical attendance for nothing; and he has had his children also born, nursed, clothed, fed, educated, established, and physiced for nothing.

Some editors are gravely proposing a Convention of Editors, to nominate a candidate for the Presidency—and others are ridiculing the idea.—The man who thinks seriously of it, ought to be ducked in a goose pond.—National Banner.

HARRISBURGH CHRONICLE—EXTRA. Published, Twice a Week, by Hugh Hamilton & Son.—Reports of Proceedings of the Pennsylvania Legislature.—The Harrisburgh Chronicle will contain a concise and faithful report of the proceedings and debates of the Legislature of Pennsylvania, which will commence its session in Harrisburgh, on the first Tuesday of December next. The Senior Editor will report in one of the legislative branches, and an experienced and competent Reporter is engaged to attend in the other. Such reports will be furnished as are calculated to put the reader in possession of a history of the Session of 1833-4; to do which, the faculty of condensation shall be employed for the benefit of the reader, even though it may sometimes be unpleasant to the legislator; for the topics that must, of course, come up for discussion, will be more numerous, important, and diversified than they have been heretofore, and there is every probability that the exciting questions that must necessarily be agitated in Congress, will also become exciting questions in the Legislature of the State, and add to the interest of the Session.

The proceedings of the Legislature of the State are full of interest to the citizen, and an intimate acquaintance with them is almost an indispensable requisite, when he comes forward on election day to exercise his sovereignty in the capacity of a voter. Hence every citizen ought to possess a fair and faithful report of the proceedings, and it is hoped that those who do not choose the Chronicle will take some other paper for this purpose.

TERMS.—For the Session alone, twice a week, in advance, - $2 00
For the whole year, in advance, 3 00

☞Persons furnishing six subscribers, and enclosing $10, shall have a seventh copy forwarded regularly for their trouble.

LOOK HERE—A BARGAIN!!

INASMUCH as the undersigned wishes to improve his property, in various parts of the city of Pittsburgh, he avails himself of the opportunity of offering, to the public, that well known property, in Pitt township, three and a half miles from Pittsburgh, near what was formerly called the 'Black Horse Tavern,' on the Pittsburgh and Greensburgh Turnpike, viz:—10, 20, or 30 acres, or more, if required, with the improvements. A further description is deemed unnecessary, as those wishing to purchase, will call and examine for themselves.

I wish, also, to engage 15 or 20 laboring men, to clear a certain quantity of land, on the same premises, for which the highest price will be given for their labor. A person circumstanced to take the contract, would be preferred.

I also offer for sale, the three fourth parts of the three quarter lot, No. 220, marked off on Col. Woods' plan of said city, 60 feet front, on Front street, or First, running through to Second street, between Wood and Market streets, with the back rents, of which an indisputable title can be given.

DAILY PAPER AT HARRISBURGH.—The subscribers propose to publish a Daily Paper during the coming session of the Legislature, provided a sufficient number of subscribers are procured to warrant the expense. The necessity of a daily journal at the seat of government, impartial as to politics, and giving the debates of both houses, fully, faithfully, and daily, has long since been acknowledged. Such a paper cannot be sustained in Harrisburg, unless the citizens of other sections of the state come forward and aid in its support. At the present stage of our improvement system, and fiscal conserns of the commonwealth, a daily paper, the statements of which can be depended upon, published at the seat of government, must be a desideratum of all parties. We therefore shall expect that exertions will be made in every section of the state to procure us subscribers.

The Daily Pennsylvania Intelligencer will be printed on a half imperial sheet, for five dollars (in advance,) during the session. It will not only contain full and impartial daily reports of the proceedings of the Legislature, but will contain a summary of the proceedings of Congress, besides news and miscellaneous reading. ☞Post Masters and Agents procuring four subscribers, shall receive a fifth copy gratis.

FAIRBANK'S PLATFORM SCALES.

THESE scales are constructed upon an improved principle; are fitted up with great care by the manufacturers, and warranted to weigh with accuracy from half a pound to 12,000. Being placed in, and forming part of, the floor, the process of weighing is performed with ease and facility, while the space they occupy may be improved as a passage way or for other purposes.

The construction of these scales is such that they are little liable to derangement of wear, and their perfect operation will be guaranteed for any reasonable length of time.

The usual objection, that a new method of weighing cannot be safely entrusted to unskilful hands, is obviated by the use of the improved BALANCE, concerning which are the following remarks in the Journal of the Franklin Institute, of the state of Pennsylvania, for the promotion of the Mechanic Arts, for June, 1833. (Edited by Thos. P. Jones, M. D., late Superintendent of the Patent Office, at Washington, Professor of Mechanics in the Franklin Institute, &c.

"The Messrs. Fairbanks, some time since, obtained a patent for a Platform Weighing Machine, and this mode of adjuating and graduating the Beam of the Balance, and the weights, was devised by them with a view to its employment with the before mentioned machine. We have had an opportunity of examining one of their balances, and have been much pleased with it: this examination, however, was not necessary to the conviction that it possesses a just claim to the character of a real improvement, the whole arrangement being so simple as to enable any person to perceive that it is well adapted to the purpose contemplated, that of facilitating the business of weighing, and more especially of heavy articles."

The subscriber, as Agent, will receive orders for the above Scales, which will be made in this city to order. They can be seen at his Warehouse, No. 84, Front street.

Nov. 8, 1833. MOSES ATWOOD.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

THE Subscribers, Trustees of the New Philadelphia Society, at Phillipsburgh, Beaver county, Pennsylvania, offer for sale the following property, to wit:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | tract of land | containing | 330 acres |
| 1 | do | do | 330 |
| 1 | do | do | 67 |
| 1 | do | do | 7 |
| 1 | do | do | 40 |
| | other lots, containing about | | 6 |

The above lands lie in one body, fronting about two miles upon the Ohio river—immediately opposite the mouth of Big Beaver creek, and the Beaver Division of the Pennsylvania Canal. The land is rich, and a part of it under a high state of cultivation—its location pleasant and healthy. The improvements upon the same are valuable, including the town of Phillipsburgh, late the residence of Count Leon, and the New Philadelphia Society. The town contains about 40 Dwelling Houses, now in order; some of them brick houses and two stories high. A large and spacious Hotel, a Store house, Church, a number of Shops, for mechanics, Stables, Barns, and other out houses. Also, two large new buildings, lately erected, but not yet finished, one of brick, the other of frame (the latter suitable for a manufactory) a very extensive public garden, and also fruit trees of various kinds. The property has also attached to it the right of a ferry across the Ohio, which is valuable, and becoming more so every day.

The above property is situated in the midst of a wealthy and prosperous country, distant about 28 miles below Pittsburgh, and one mile from Beaver, the seat of justice for Beaver county—and having a view for many miles up and down the Ohio, and of the country to a great distance around.

The subscribers are confident in saying that few situations could be found, presenting greater facilities to the farmer, mechanic, the manufacturer, and others—a soil rich and productive—the neighborhood abounding in coal—well timbered and watered, and, by means of the Pennsylvania Canal, and steamboat navigation, a cheap and ready conveyance to market, and a communication with other places is ensured.

The property is susceptible of divisions into farms, or for the location of new towns, or for the extension of the present one.

Should it not be sold on or before the first day of January next, it will then be offered at public sale, upon the premises, to the highest and best bidder.

It will be sold in a body, or in parcels, to suit purchasers.

Terms of sale will be reasonable.

Information can be had by enquiring of the subscribers, two of whom live in the neighborhood, and one on the premises.

DOCTOR ROBERT'S

☞WELCH MEDICAMENTUM.☜

FOR the cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints. Jaundice, Cholic, Fever and Ague, Dysentery, Headach, Loss of Appetite, Flatulence, Hypochondria, Hysterics, Dropsical Complaints, and Heartburn, It also prevents all Bilious disorders, and removes habitual Costiveness, Asthma, Strangury, Gravel, Rheumatism, Gout, and Impurities of the Blood.

A person who uses this Medicamentum will not require the use of the lancet, or any means of the healing art. It restores and revives the animal spirits, invigorates the system, removes nervous tremors, obtunds rheumatic and anthritic pains, and prevents their return. It cleanses the stomach of all morbid humors, which cause indigestion, acidities, headach, and lowness of spirits; cures all bilious disorders, and all cholics of the stomach and bowels, almost immediately; inspires cheerfulness; gives comfort to the dropsical; takes away palpitation of the heart; gives circulation to the blood; restores bloom to the sallow or sickly cheek, and plumpness to the meagre habit; purges without pain, and banishes all cause of fever of every kind. It acts on the stomach, that great reservoir of the human system, a diseased state of which causes all diseases. No alteration in the usual habits of life is required, but the abstaining from distilled ardent spirits.

CERTIFICATE,

From Rev. Derick Lansing, D. D., Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Utica.

Utica, Jan. 6, 1830.

To Dr. Hitchcock.—Dear Sir: I have always been one of the number of those who have placed little confidence in nostrums or specifics, and for this reason, although I saw your advertisement of the Welch Medicamentum, I could not bring my mind to consent to use it. My sufferings, from indigestion, during the past summer, were so severe, as materially to affect my comfort, and my capacity for usefulness. I have reason to thank you, sir, that, on hearing of the state of my health, you kindly sent me your Medicamentum. I have taken it faithfully, and with entire success. I have not been visited with one of those turns of distress, which before were weekly periodical, since I began to take your valuable medicine. Could I receive the same relief which I have hitherto experienced, on condition of taking it for life, I should cheerfully comply with such condition. Your's, very truly, D. C. LANSING.

ANTI-DYSPEPTIC ELIXER.

ONE of the most agreeable and efficacious Medicines ever discovered for the permanent cure of those chronic states of derangement of the stomach, constituting that miserable disease called Dyspepsia.

The basis of this Elixer s vegetables, and perfectly innocent in its operation; it destroys that sour state of the stomach, the instant it is taken, and stops the morbid secretion, by giving strength to the muscular fibre of that important organ, by which means the peristaltic motion of the intestines is increased, and the costiveness obviated; a new action is given to the system, which puts an end to a train of distressing nervous sensations.

Another form of the disease in which the Elixer is admirably calculated to relieve, is the decline of fever, where the stomach will not bear the ordinary strengthening medicines indicated in such cases, it has the surprising effect of giving vigor, and restoring the natural secretions of the body, without increasing the febrile state. Not the least danger is to be apprehended from exposure to cold, while under the use of this medicine, nor will it interrupt necessary employment of the patient a single hour.

☞A number of cases of cures performed by the Anti-Dyspeptic Elixer in the vicinity of Pittsburgh can be given.

GEO. W. CARPENTER'S

COMPOUND SYRUP OF LIVERWORT,

A SAFE and Valuable Medicine for Coughs, Spitting of Blood, Consumption, and Liver Complaints.

Most of the medicines made use of for the above diseases are of a stimulating nature, composed generally of Resins and Balsams, in alcoholic solutions, which, although sometimes giving temporary relief, in almost every instance where they are freely used, aggravate the disease, and reduce the strength of the patient.

This article possesses superior advantages over these preparations, its action being of a tonic, invigorating and strengthening nature, thus overcoming the disease by promoting expectoration, and gradully increasing the strength of the patient, and thus, without being attended with any unpleasant effects: it also agrees with the stomach, in a cases, and is a pleasant medicine to take.

PATENT PLANING MACHINE.—The right to use this valuable machine, invented and patented by William Woodworth, and known as Woodworth's Patent Planing Machine, may be obtained on application to the subscriber for the counties of Allegheny, Butler, Beaver, Washington, Green, Fayette, Somerset, Cambria, Indiana, Jefferson, Clearfield, M'Kean, Warren, Venango, Mercer, Crawford, and Erie, in the State of Pennsylvania. That part of Maryland lying west of the Blue Ridge; all that part of Virginia lying west of the Blue Ridge, except the county of Ohio. The whole of the state of Ohio except the counties of Hamilton, Butler, and Montgomery. The whole of the state of Kentucky, except the counties of Jefferson, Boone, Oldham, Gallatin, and Campbell. The whole of Indiana, except the counties of Floyd, Clark, Jefferson, Dearborn, and Switzerland. The whole of the state of Illinois, and the territory of Michigan. Rights to use the machine in that part of the United States, named above, will be sold by the single county or in larger districts. As it is presumed that no one will purchase without seeing the machine at work, a description of it is deemed unnecessary. Should any person, however, wish to purchase, and find it inconvenient to visit the places where it is in operation, a machine will be furnished, warranted to plane, tongue and groove, and bring to an exact width and thickness, a white pine board of 12 feet long, and of any width from 1 to 14 inches, in one minute and ten seconds, or an oak board of the same dimensions in 2 minutes and 10 seconds. Machines may be seen at work in the cities of New Orleans, Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, and others at the south and east, at Wheeling, Virginia, and at the saw mill of Messrs. Irwin & Herron, in this city.

Persons desiring to purchase will have the certificates of scientific and practical men who have seen it at work, in the different places in which it has been put up, forwarded to them. They give their opinion as to the great value of the invention, state the time they have seen boards dressed by this machine, and describe the quality of the work as compared with that performed by hand labor.
